

Victor Galloway serves as a Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) Community Affairs Specialist for North Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia. He and the Community Affairs staff assist financial institution in developing strategies that are responsive to the credit, service and investment needs of their communities by: fostering initiatives that create positive banking relationships between consumers and financial institutions and move unbanked and underserved consumers into mainstream banking relationship; promoting community development partnerships and access to capital in historically underserved markets; working with financial institutions, national, regional, and local organizations by collaborating on community development and asset-building projects; developing products and presenting training programs on financial education; serving as subject matter at industry and community conferences and meetings; providing technical assistance, as necessary, to financial institutions and compliance staff; producing articles, publication and other materials on current and emerging issues and, increasing knowledge of Community Reinvestment Act regulations and fair lending laws.

Victor Galloway has several years of Fortune 100 Senior Executive Leadership experience with expertise in working across multiple business channels, public institutions and government agencies. He has consulted with C-Level Executives, academic leaders, senior White House staffers, government agencies and congressional members to forge economic development and collaboration among small businesses, major corporations, higher education institutions, and community development practitioners. He is the founder of Influencer, LLC a consulting firm. He is a nationally recognized speaker on social justice and civil rights as well as economic impact of public policies on underserved communities. He has directed and collaborated on research and public policy projects on affordable housing, aging in place, student debts, mortgage lending, racial wealth gaps and racial disparities. He served as a leader and advisor to faith base leaders across the country. Mr. Galloway has served as chairman of numerous national boards. He is a graduate of North Carolina State University College of Design.